DESERT DINING

More than 100 restaurants in the Palm Springs area—including many of the region's top-rated dining establishments—will offer special pricing during the Palm Springs Desert Resorts Restaurant Week, which this year will take place in two contiguous segments, spanning 10 days each. Restaurants in Palm Springs, Desert Hot Springs, Cathedral City and Rancho Mirage will participate from May 31 to June 9, and restaurants in Palm Desert, Indian Wells, La Quinta and Indio will participate from June 10 to June 19. Each restaurant will offer a three-course prix-fixe menu—including an appetizer, a main course and a dessert—at a price of $24 or $36.

"The desert is filled with wonderful restaurants, and [Restaurant Week] gives people the opportunity to try a number of restaurants they might not have been to before," says Juliana Copley, owner of Copley's on Palm Canyon and president of the Palm Springs Desert Resorts Restaurant Association, organizer of the event.
